

Now is the Time We Protect the Freedom of Japan and Taiwan to Bring Peace and Prosperity to Asia

New Taiwan President Lai Ching-te, who shows resolute attitude toward People's Republic of China(PRC), sworn into office on May 2024. In response to this, PRC is strengthening its military pressure to forcibly annex Taiwan. PRC threatens Taiwan claiming "We will never allow Taiwan becomes independent". However, historically Taiwan has never been a part of PRC. Happiness Realization Party(HRP) believes that protecting Taiwan, a prosperous nation, which shares the value of "Freedom, Democracy and Faith", is indispensable to protect peace and prosperity of Asia.

HRP Held Press Conference at the Legislative Yuan of Taiwan

HRP has announced the "Taiwan Relations Act (Happiness Realization Party draft)" on September 6 in the press conference, which was organized by Taiwan Association of University Professors, and held at the Legislative Yuan.

Secretary-General Masatoshi Enatsu stated "It was a wrongful act, from the spirit of "Bushido", for Japan to one-sidedly sever its diplomatic relations with Taiwan. We, Japan, should take a step forward to strengthen our relations with Taiwan and establish a mutual alliance" and Japan needs Taiwan Relations Act as a preliminary step toward restoration of diplomatic relations or formation of alliance. He also insisted that it's possible to prevent WWIII in the Indo-Pacific region through encircling atheist country PRC by countries with faith includes Japan and Taiwan.

About "Taiwan Relations Act" drafted by The Happiness Realization Party

The current relationship between Japan and Taiwan is vulnerable. It is based on exchange between the people of the two nations, not on law. "Taiwan Relations Act" drafted by The Happiness Realization Party gives legal basis to the mutual changes between Japan and Taiwan through every opportunity. Especially, the draft confirms that Japan and Taiwan share the value of "Freedom, Democracy and Faith" and clarifies that Japan enhances its system of security cooperation with Taiwan.

PRC and Taiwan Are Different Countries — Japan will never abandon Taiwan again

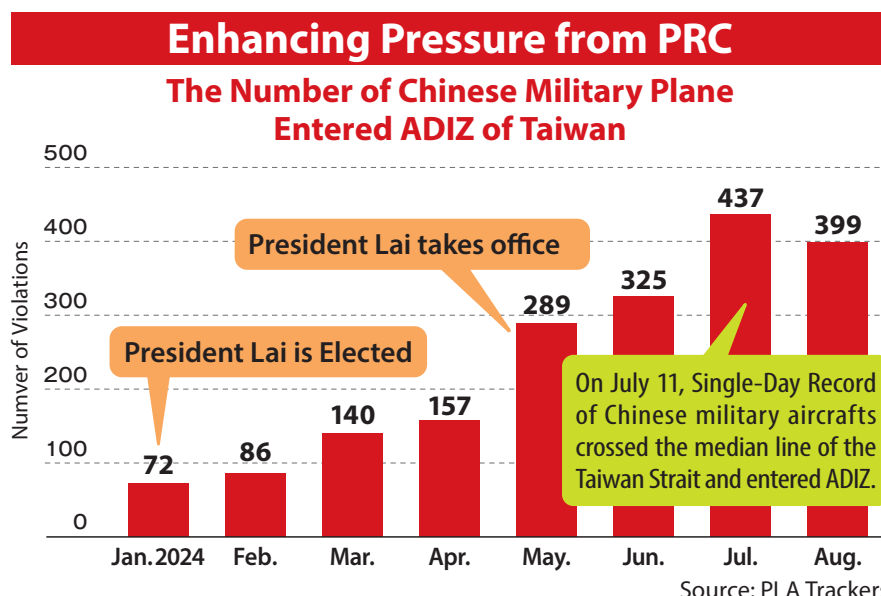

In 1972, Japan revived diplomatic relations with the PRC and unilaterally severed relations with Taiwan. Chinese Communist Party insists that "Taiwan is a part of PRC's territory" however, it is not true. The legitimate history is that the Republic of China was deprived of its territory by PRC. The political system of Taiwan differs from that of PRC and Taiwan has been grown as a different nation. If Japan do nothing in the face of a Taiwan's emergency, it is possible that PRC will also invade Senkaku Islands and Okinawa. Now, Japan needs to decide that it will never abandon Taiwan again.

The Critical Situations Surrounding Japan and Taiwan

PRC's Military Pressure on Taiwan

New Taiwan President Lai Ching-te stressed Taiwan's independence and sovereignty, saying "The Republic of China and the People's Republic of China are not subordinate to each other" in his inaugural address on May 20, 2024. PRC fiercely opposed those remarks and carried out the two days of large military drills around Taiwan on May 24 and 25. Also in July 11, record high of 56 Chinese military aircrafts crossed the median line of the Taiwan Strait, a de-facto cease-fire line, and entered air defense identification zone (ADIZ) in a single-day. From the beginning of this year, PRC has been strengthening its military pressure on Taiwan.

Annexation of Taiwan by 2027? — Japan is in Imminent Danger as well

PRC President Xi Jinping expressed repeatedly that PRC will never renounce the right to use force for the unification of Taiwan. Behind this claim, there is a growing dissatisfaction of the people of PRC due to the economic recession such as the burst of the real estate bubble and a series of natural disasters. To maintain the regime, it is highly likely that PRC moves to annex Taiwan by 2027 as an "achievement" of Xi's 3rd term. As Taiwan emergency approaches, activities of Chinese military around Japan is increasing. On August 26, a Chinese military plane entered Japanese airspace near Nagasaki Prefecture for the first time. On August 31, the Chinese military survey ship entered the territorial waters off Kagoshima Prefecture.

To Protect Taiwan

As Taiwan emergency approaches, it is urgent that Japan strengthens its defense capability. It's a global standard that a nation protects it by itself. Japan urgently needs to become such a standard nation by amending Article 9 of the Japanese Constitution and organizing its national defense force. Furthermore, HRP advocates the following policies to strengthen relations with Taiwan under the idea of "Japan and Taiwan share the same fate".

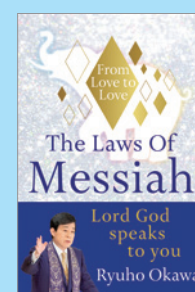

- 1 Enhancing the economic cooperation by promoting Japan-Taiwan Free Trade Agreement (FTA)
- 2 Making a cabinet decision that "Taiwan emergency is the situation posing threats to the survival of Japan"
- 3 Implementing Taiwan Relations Act
- 4 Recognizing Taiwan as a country and restoring diplomatic relations
- 5 Establishing the Japan-Taiwan Alliance
